

Amphibians

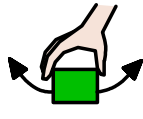

Amphibians live all around the world.

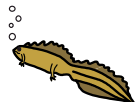

Some underwater and some on land.

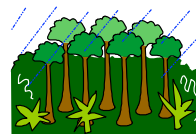

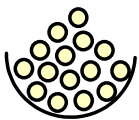

Amphibians live in damp environments.

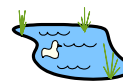

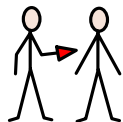

They use their environment to keep warm.

Frogs, toads and newts are amphibians.

Most frogs live in tropical rainforests.

You might also discover frogs in your local pond.

Fire Salamanders

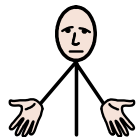

=

Fire salamanders are amphibians

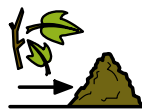

They live in northern Europe.

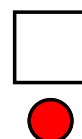

+

Fire salamanders need cool and wet weather.

+

They live in compost and under logs.

Fire Salamanders

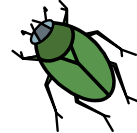

Fire salamanders

eat

crickets,

beetles

and worms.

They

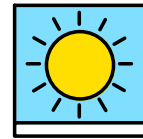

come out

at night

and sleep

in the day.

Fire salamanders

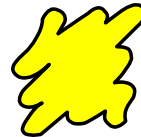

are

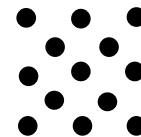

black

with

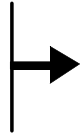

yellow

spots

like sparks

from a

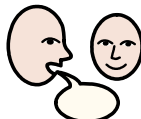

fire.

Stories

long ago

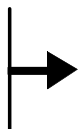

said that

fire salamanders

grew

from

fires.

Green tree frogs

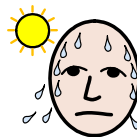

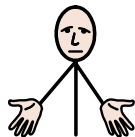

=

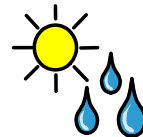

Green tree frogs are amphibians.

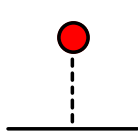

They live in america.

+

Green tree frogs need hot and humid weather.

They live high up in the trees.

Green tree frogs

Green tree frogs

eat

crickets,

and worms.

They

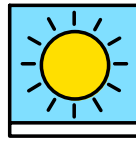

come out

at night

and sleep

in the day.

Green tree frogs

Have a loud

call.

Frogs

lay spawn that

changes into tadpoles.

Tadpoles

grow into

frogs.

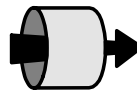

Frogs

drink

and breathe

through their

skin.

Blue Poison Dart Frogs

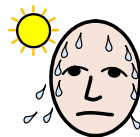

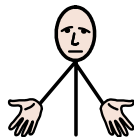

=

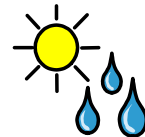

Blue poison dart frogs are amphibians.

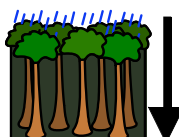

They live in south america.

+

Blue poison dart frogs need hot and humid weather.

They live on the rainforest floor.

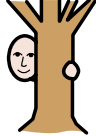

Blue Poison Dart Frogs

They

like

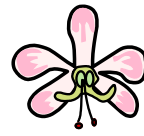

to hide in

bromeliad

and

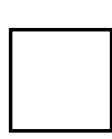

orchids.

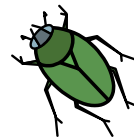

Blue poison dart frogs

eat

tiny

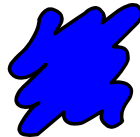

beetles.

Blue poison dart frogs

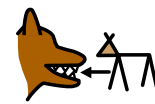

are

blue

to warn

predators.

They

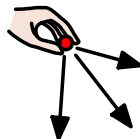

are

poisonous.

Blue poison dart frogs

give out

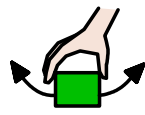

poison

on their skin.

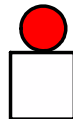

Hunters

use

the poison

on

on their arrows.